The Challenges

Today's conversations with the Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana beneficiaries were insightful. I spoke with several other women across the village who shared the positive changes the program brought, particularly regarding health and time saved. Though it was evident that a good number of villagers were using LPG cylinders for cooking even before the advent of PMUY.

However, a recurring theme emerged - irregular service. It seems the lack of proper infrastructure in the village makes it difficult for consistent deliveries to reach everyone.

On that note, I decided to visit the local gas station myself. The journey as for most of the villagers is challenging due to the mountainous terrain.

It is clear that improved infrastructure is key to ensuring smoother program execution here.

These observations will be important in understanding the complete picture of Ujjawala Yojana's impact.
