Major points of the day:

Three weeks in and I am feeling a real connection to this village. Focusing upon the Pradhan Mantri Ujjawala Yojana, a govt. of India initiative that aims to provide LPG to rural population replacing woodstove leading to uplifted living conditions and elevating carbon emission. Thus got to the local office of the govt. gas representative to discuss the program and its outreach at the ground level. Armed with great insights in I we ventured into the village, spoke with a few women regarding their experience and hearing their firsthand experiences was incredibly valuable. They shared how having a clean and safe cooking fuel saves them a lot of time each day. Moreover is less of a health hazard.

These conversations are definitely gave me a deeper understanding of the program's impacts and the challenges faced by the people.
