Major points of the day:

After spending several days immersing myself in the rhythms of village life and absorbing the wealth of local knowledge and ingenuity I felt, compelled to take action. The resilience and resourcefulness of the community inspired me to contribute in a meaningful way.

Filled with insights and ideas gathered from conversation with villagers, I convened a meeting at the community center.

I convened a meeting at the community center. I shared my observations about the challenges they face, such as transportation difficulties and the need for diversified income streams.

This marks the end of my sojourn in the Gashwal Himalayas, but the beginning of a lifelong bond with a community whose resilience and warmth have forever touched my soul.
